Alabama's involvement in World War II and how it affected citizens statewide will be the focus of Mobile Remembers World War II. Throughout this three-day session, educators will explore the historical gems found throughout Mobile and the surrounding areas that played a significant role in mobilizing for the war. From visual walkabouts and field trips to the History Museum of Alabama and the USS Alabama, to oral histories exploring the personal accounts of those involved directly in the war, participants will become immersed into local history and enhance their content knowledge of World War II while participating in instructional activities and practices to share with their colleagues and students.
